Our New Arrivals for Today's Working Worlds

Today's working worlds – confident, needs-oriented, tailored to diverse situations

With ongoing digitalization and the 'new work' metatrend – with a mix of working on site, at home and remotely – we focus on how a company can facilitate the creativity, performance and motivation of every team member. Today, everyone from entry level to top management makes a conscious choice when it comes to their workplace and location, ensuring it suits their particular situation. People are looking for variety and choose the place where the particular job can be done best. And that has to be catered to.

Company power house

The heart and soul of a company is revealed in its office. Meeting in a common place is of great importance for corporate spirit. That people feel comfortable there is the basic prerequisite for an attractive workplace.

Our environment shapes our thinking and behavior. Its sensory nature plays an important role in our working lives, for sensory experiences are not just reserved for the private sphere. The level of well-being is what makes the difference when it comes to optimal performance in the long term. A space that touches our senses allows us to be creative and add value. Flexible, organic spaces create connections.

This is how an office can be adapted to many situations

We focused more on this topic with our new products. Our furnishings allow offices to be designed to offer alternatives: different areas for different situations. A modern conference room therefore allows meetings at a spacious table, while confidential conversations are held in a seating area nearby, with a carpeted floor. Team meetings in small groups take place on comfy sofas. This is how the office supports different situations – with a variety of furniture and areas. Working to suit a situation, and not just according to the function of a specific room or space.

Our furniture creates added value

The same room and the same furniture can be used for different situations and are no longer assigned to just one function. This is where people can naturally perform at their best, resulting in communication, creativity, and success.

Walter Knoll brings quality into a space. The fact that people enjoy working there long term demonstrates the quality of a workspace.

Mono-V Desk & Sideboard.

Design: Wolfgang C. R. Mezger.

Archaic clarity: the Executive Desk as a workbench for leaders

Made for offices with a classic approach: the Mono-V desk program featuring prestigious tables with panel legs and a corresponding sideboard is tailored to the needs of executives and leaders. The graphic lines and bridge shape stand for architectural clarity. A clear desk for clear thoughts.

Projects can be sorted and structured on the large desk top. The height adjustment function allows people to take different positions at the desk. Valuable and customizable. For working on major projects.

New tools for modern leadership

The architecture of the product follows the communication style of its owner. Mono-V creates a communicative space that does justice to its role: communication is a leadership tool, and Mono-V the corresponding workbench.

A desk that adapts to you, at a height that suits you: this is where you show what you are made of, conduct consultations in an intimate atmosphere, work creatively, and sound out decisions. You can choose how to have a discussion. The desk can be raised; it is suitable for working low and high, both when seated and when standing.

The modern executive office

What are the distinguishing features of an executive's workplace today? The executive office shows the identity and individuality of a CEO. The choice of office furnishings underscores a person's philosophy, how that person likes to work and wants to be perceived. People want to distinguish themselves. Our furniture will help you express yourself appropriately, reflecting your feeling for culture and aesthetics.

Surroundings shape your state of mind

Warm, natural materials, such as wood and leather, give us the opportunity to make a space feel cozy. A crucial success factor for personal well-being and performance. We value aesthetics because the design of a room, its materials and furniture, create a tangible environment. Our surroundings shape us.

Clear lines for clear thoughts

In focus: the mono-materiality of the desk – a well-proportioned workbench with high-quality details on the edges or the modesty panel. Material and shape in balance.

Leather panel for added functionality and emotion

The leather is pleasant to the touch and is not only very sensual, but also helpful at work: you can neatly spread out a complex task on the large leather surface. Mono-V thus helps you sort things and prepare a decision. The sensuousness and clarity of material and proportions bring quality to a room.

Corresponding storage solution

The sideboard can be used to store personal items and work utensils – discreetly and quickly to hand. The storage solution in the design of the desk adapts to your established routines. If desired, the top gives you access to ports so you can connect your favorite devices.

The options

- The table with a panel leg: prestigious Executive Desk and conference table.
- The Sideboard: corresponding storage solution in the same design as the desks.
- The Pedestal: connected directly to the desk.
- With T-leg: elegant, compact Executive Desk with a lightweight look.

Walter Knoll CEO Markus Benz: “Every trend has a counter-trend; the open office contrasts with the classic executive office you are familiar with from law or tax consulting firms. Mono-V stands for the individual communication style of an executive. A clear desk for clear thoughts.”

Muud Lite Sofa & Armchair.

Design: EOOS.

Elegant lightness

Quality in space with great comfort and high value with compact dimensions. Muud Lite extends our product family Muud, designed by EOOS, and stands for an optimally balanced relationship between minimalism in the use of materials and comfort in the upholstery. A wide range of configuration options allows an incredible amount of design freedom: for example, as a corner solution, in a U-shape or in the combination of armchair and sofa or two identical models facing each other. The timeless, reduced design language with fine craftsmanship fits into the most diverse environments: activity-based workspaces, open spaces, in the lounge or waiting area of a store or law firm, as well as in the lobby or bar of a design hotel.

The feel-good factor at work

The world of work is changing – with feeling now playing its part even at a professional level, with intuition and gut feeling the invisible factors helping to make a decision round the table. Work not only as an obligation but also as quality time.

Personal well-being and feeling good at work increase productivity and are a decisive factor for success. They enhance the attractiveness of a workplace and, not least, of the employer. After all, you are happy to stay somewhere that makes you feel good.

The Muud family – optimized space economy

The adaptable, free-standing Muud sofa is an island of well-being even for smaller-scale floor plans: soft upholstery, sumptuous cushions, an airy feel. The designers from EOOS have now come up with a scaled-down design for new uses and have managed to create complete comfort in a small space. With Muud Lite and Muud Silent, new sofas and armchairs expand the family, offering an efficient and price-sensitive solution for optimized space economy with their compact dimensions. This is sustain-ability in action: the sensible use of space and resources.

Muud Silent Sofa.

Design: EOOS.

An extension of the successful Muud product family: our new sofa for communication zones in activity-based workspaces. The screens of the Muud Silent Sofa make it possible to create a space in a large room where you can have confidential conversations and work on something together. A sustainable and economical solution – reduced in material and volume.

Always happy to return to the office

People like to spend their time in a workspace that is deliberately set up to satisfy the needs of its users, and therefore deliberately seek out such a place as a contrast to working at home. People go into the office to meet with others. The office is reinventing and redefining itself as a result of the pandemic: it has become a place of encounter. This is where we engage in activities that create meaning and a sense of community; this is where team spirit comes to life. Complex tasks can be coordinated in a pleasant atmosphere. Privacy is possible even in a large room.

It's all about creating a stimulating environment where you love to work through your to-do list. We help to design spaces that accommodate the different tasks and situations in working life. Muud Silent is made for situations where people come together – communication with commitment on a level playing field. A sensible change from working at home. And a major factor in ensuring optimum performance.

Leadchair Executive Soft.

Design: EOOS.

The successful range is being extended: Leadchair Executive now also completely reflects the spirit of the times with soft upholstery – for comfort and coziness in the office. It retains its function as an executive chair, conference chair, or visitor chair, with the addition of a softer, more casual feel. Ergonomic comfort, available in three heights, covered with leather or fabric.

Take a seat, lean back, and feel good. A chair that enhances its occupier's personal well-being. Healthy sitting thanks to the synchronized mechanism: the angle between the seat and the backrest opens, the seat moves back and down. The supportive effect of the back can be set individually using the adjusting cylinder under the seat. Soft fabric or leather modulates the elegant upholstery; the base, rotating column, seat, back and armrests seem all of a piece.

The swivel chair represents the Walter Knoll design DNA: modernity that remains timeless and the constant development of upholstery expertise. Leadchair makes two statements: for its own image and the company's identity. It is a sign of appreciation of the person sitting on it.

Lox Side Table.

Design: Pearson Lloyd.

Three new sizes for flexible working in an activity-based workspace. The medium size can be comfortably pushed up to a sofa – so you can work in a relaxed atmosphere or have a small snack.

The compact and versatile design is a pleasure to sit at without bumping into the edge of the table. The table is available in different heights, with rounded or gently rounded corners, the top optionally made of glass or Fenix. The base elegantly reflects the shape of the table top.

Lox Tables are available in various versions: as a High Standing Table, Dining Table or Side Table beside a sofa or armchair. With its rounded design, the Lox program has a pleasantly inviting look – in hospitality areas, hotels and restaurants, or in the office.
